I do not currently meet the undergraduate admissions requirements to enroll as a transfer student, and would like to work towards these requirements so I can apply to attend UA Online in the future. What types of courses should I take?

A student who plans to transfer to The University of Arizona should take courses from a regionally accredited college or university with the goal of completing general education requirements with a recalculated college GPA of at least 2.0. Generally, courses taken in English Composition, mathematics, second language, science, social and behavioral sciences, humanities, and arts are the recommended subjects that could both help meet admissions requirements as well as progress a student closer to completing requirements for a Bachelors Degree. Students in this scenario are advised to reach out to The University of Arizona Transfer Student Center for guidance. For more information, click here [1].

Tag:
Registration [2]

Source URL:
http://uaonline.arizona.edu/i-do-not-currently-meet-undergraduate-admissions-requirements-enroll-transfer-student-and-would-work

Links